The British General Election Surveys 1992

Technical Notes

1. Introduction

The British General Election Surveys (BGES) constitute the longest academic series of nationally representative probability sample surveys in this country. They have taken place immediately after every general election since 1964, giving a total of nine so far. There have also been two non-election year surveys (in 1963 and 1969), a postal referendum study in 1975, additional or booster Scottish studies in 1974, 1979 and 1992, an additional Welsh study in 1979 and campaign studies in 1987 and 1992.

The series was originated by David Butler (Nuffield College, Oxford) and Donald Stokes (University of Michigan), who continued to direct the studies until 1970. The series then passed on to Ivor Crewe, Bo Sarlvik and James Alt at the University of Essex (later joined by David Robertson) who organised the two 1974 surveys and the 1979 one. The 1983, 1987 and 1992 studies were directed by Anthony Heath (Jesus and Nuffield Colleges, Oxford), Roger Jowell (SCPR) and John Curtice (Universities of Liverpool and Strathclyde). And as in 1983 and 1987, fieldwork and data preparation were carried out by SCPR. The research team for the 1992 study included Lindsay Brook, Bridget Taylor and Gillian Prior.

Nuffield College found the bulk of the funds for the fieldwork for the early Butler and Stokes surveys. The Economic and Social Research Council (formerly the Social Science Research Council) then became the major funding agency, wholly supporting the Essex surveys. The 1983 study was jointly funded by the Economic and Social Research Council, Pergamon Press and Jesus College, Oxford, and the 1987 study by the ESRC¹, Pergamon Press and the Sainsbury Family Charitable Trusts. The 1992 cross-section study was also funded jointly by the ESRC and the Sainsbury Trusts, which again generously allowed their core-funding of the British Social Attitudes survey series to be devoted to the BGES series in election year. The panel study was funded by the ESRC through its grant to the Joint Unit for the Study of Social Trends (JUSST), an ESRC Research Centre linking SCPR and Nuffield College, Oxford.

In 1992, a grant by the ESRC to the University of Strathclyde enabled the representation of Scottish electors in the sample to be boosted substantially. This 'oversampling' of the Scots was undertaken in order to permit more detailed investigation of voting behaviour in Scotland than has usually been the case with the British General Election Surveys. The principal investigators were Jack Brand and James Mitchell.

These technical notes accompanying the datasets and codebooks briefly describe the structure, methodology and timing of the latest studies in the BGES series, and provide details of response rates achieved and weights applied to the datasets.

2.1 The sample

The survey was designed to yield a representative sample of eligible voters in Great Britain. It is not a random sample of all resident adults, but only of those on the electoral register and eligible to vote in the general election of April 1992. Those electors living in institutions were eligible for selection.

As with previous surveys in the election study series, electors living in Northern Ireland were excluded from the BGES survey because the party composition and particular concerns of the province required a separately-designed study. In 1992, for the first time, such a study among the Northern Ireland electorate was conducted, by a separate team of investigators. Again, the ESRC provided the funding.

A three-stage selection procedure was used. First, a sample of 218 constituencies was selected (159 in England and Wales and 59 in Scotland²), with probability proportionate to size of electorate. Before selection, the constituencies had been stratified according to the following factors, in order:

- ? Registrar General's Standard Region
- ? population density band (persons per hectare)
- ? percentage of dwellings owner-occupied as in the 1981 Census.

In order to make the strata fairly equal in size, the population density banding varied according to Standard Region.

Second, all polling districts within the selected constituencies were ordered in a logical sequence associated with the particular labelling system used within the constituency. Any polling district with fewer than 500 electors was combined with the one following it in this (circular) list to form one unit, so that addresses in any constituency would not be too tightly clustered.

In anticipation of an election being called for November 1991 at the latest, the second stage of sample selection was carried out using the electoral registers current between February 1991 and February 1992. Indeed, a sample of electors was drawn from these registers so that SCPR would be ready to begin fieldwork immediately after election day. When it became evident, however, that the election was likely to be in April 1992, the research team applied to, and obtained from, the ESRC extra funding to allow SCPR to draw a fresh sample of electors from the new registers when they started to become available in mid-February 1992.

In the course of selecting constituencies, a random elector had been picked. The polling district within which the preselected elector lived was the selected polling district, so that its probability of selection was proportionate to the size of electorate.

At the third stage, within each of the 218 selected polling districts, a sample of 24 electors was selected with equal probability, a random starting point being selected from random number tables and every *n*th elector chosen. Any selected elector ineligible to vote in the general election (peers and those whose eighteenth birthday took place after April 9th) were replaced with an eligible elector (again selected by means of random number tables). Overall, a sample of 5,232 names was selected in this way (3,816 in England and Wales and 1,416 in Scotland).

2.2 Fieldwork and response

A small-scale pilot was carried out in early December 1991. Six interviewers carried out 48 interviews between them, and administered a short self-completion questionnaire to respondents. The interviewers attended a debriefing afterwards, conducted by members of the research team.

All interviewers undertaking assignments at the main fieldwork phase were personally briefed by three of the SCPR research team then working on the project (Roger Jowell, Lindsay Brook and Gillian Prior). A small number of supplementary briefings were later given by experienced regional field supervisors. Fieldwork in England and Wales began on 10th April, and in Scotland on 14th April; 217 SCPR interviewers worked on the cross-section survey (163 in England and Wales, and 54 in Scotland).

The names of some potential respondents who had been difficult to find at home, or had moved, or had refused, or had broken appointments, were re-issued to interviewers (usually interviewers who had not made the initial calls) during the later phases of fieldwork. In addition, movers who were traced to new addresses were followed up and interviewed. This reissue phase resulted in 282 productive interviews and raised response by 6.3 per cent. The final response rate achieved was 73 per cent (72 per cent in England and Wales and 73 per cent in Scotland).

Eighty eight per cent of the total number of interviews achieved were obtained by the end of May 1992 and 97 per cent by the end of June. The remaining three per cent were conducted during July, mainly following recalls on respondents who were unable or unwilling to be interviewed earlier. The response breakdown is shown in the following table.

GES Cross-section: response summary

Response varied somewhat between Standard Regions, ranging from 78 per cent in Yorkshire and Humberside to 65 per cent in Greater London. Weights were applied to restore the sample to represent the correct proportion of electors in each Standard Region (see below).

2.3 Weighting

Weighting had been carried out on BGES 1983 and 1987, and the equivalent exercise was repeated in 1992. This included, in 1992, the downweighting of the Scottish booster sample to form a representative British sample. The following table shows the weights applied to cases in each Standard Region.

Standard Region	Electorate		Total cases (unweighted)		Weighting factor		Total cases (weighted)
	No.	%	No.	%	No.	%	No.	%
Scotland	3,927,475	9.23	957	27.1	x 0.276	264	9.2

Wales	2,217,713	5.21	149	4.2	x 0.999	149	5.2
TOTALS	42,553,069	100.01	3,534	100.2		2,857	99.9

Data on the number of electors are taken from Electoral Statistics 1992 (OPCS, 1992)

It is essential, therefore, to weight the sample using the variable WtFactor; this weights the number of respondents in each Standard Region to the proportions of registered electors in each Region.

2.4 Self-completion supplement

Following the successful introduction of a self-completion questionnaire on the 1987 BGES Cross-section survey, respondents were again asked to complete a questionnaire after the interview, either for collection by the interviewer or to return by post. In all, 93 per cent of respondents interviewed with the main questionnaire completed the supplement. The supplement contained (among other items) a set of questions designed to explore the relative importance of different sources of political information, fielded as part of the Cross-National Election Programme (CNEP).

The cases of respondents to the face-to-face interview who did not complete a self-completion supplement appear as missing on these variables in the SPSSX system file.

2.5 The split-sample experiment

A split-sample experiment was conducted to find out whether or not there was a question-order effect according to whether respondents were asked first about their vote and then about their party identification or vice-versa (see Heath and Pierce, 1992). Respondents with even serial numbers were asked the question on party identification before being asked about their vote, whereas the respondents with odd serial numbers were asked the question on party identification afterwards. Thus this series of questions appears twice in the questionnaire, with the following question numbers:

	Even serial numbers	Odd serial numbers	Derived variables
Party identification	A6a	B13a	PartyId
[if no Party Id] closer to which party?	A6b	B13b	PtyCls
Strength of Party Id	A6c	B13c	IdStrng
Main aim of party	A6d	B13d	Comprom

The derived variables PartyId and so on combine the responses of the two half-samples. These derived variables should be used in the analysis.

2.6 Variable names

In most cases variable names are based on question number and consist of question number preceded by the letter V. Variables in the classification section at the end of the face-to-face interview are numbered from V901 (thus V901a, V901b ... V902a and so on); variables on the self-completion supplement are numbered from V201 (thus V202a, V201b and so on). Other variable names, which do not follow the question-number convention - such as occupation and class variables - should be self-explanatory.

The SPSSX system file also contains a small number of derived variables.

2.7 Other conventions employed

Filters or skips

At various points in the survey, questions were asked of subsamples of respondents while others were routed past such questions. On a small number of variables more than one filter operated simultaneously. Cases which were filtered out (or skipped) are defined as -1 (or -2 or -3) and are labelled "Skipped" and the reasons for the skip given (as space permits).

'Not answered'

Where a case was productive but there are no data for a particular variable (i.e. a particular question was not answered), it can be identified by code 9 (or 99 or 999 or 9999) on each variable that was "Not answered".

Don't knows

"Don't know" responses are usually coded 8 (or 98 or 998); these should be treated as valid categories.

2.8 Constituency numbers

All selected constituencies in England, Wales and Scotland have been allocated their new and old Press Association (PA) Number. All selected constituencies can also be identified by their old OPCS Constituency Number, and all those in England and Wales have also been allocated their new OPCS Number. But new OPCS Constituency Numbers have not been assigned for Scotland, and so are missing from the dataset.

3. The Panel survey

Respondents to the 1987 BGES Cross-section survey provided the sample for the 1992 Panel survey. The aim was to interview as many of them as could be traced, once by telephone during the election campaign (that is, between 19 March and 8 April inclusive), again by telephone in the days immediately after the election (10 to 14 April inclusive), and finally face-to-face in the weeks following the election.

3.1 Tracing panel members

Of the 3,826 respondents to the 1987 survey, 363 said they were unwilling to be reinterviewed and so were excluded from the panel survey. Attempts were made to trace all the remaining 3,463 respondents. In May/June 1991, these respondents were sent a letter and form asking about their willingness to be reinterviewed at the time of the forthcoming election, and checking their current address and telephone number. The form provided space for entering the new address, or a new contact address, to cater for those who had moved since 1987.

Those cases from which no reply was received were sent a 'reminder' letter and form in June/July 1991. Those cases for which we had been given a new address or new contact address at Stage 1 of the tracing exercise, or where a contact address had been supplied in 1987, were also sent forms. Finally, those cases from which a reply still had not been received were telephoned in October/November 1991. If a telephone number had not been provided, we endeavoured to trace it. In February 1992, all respondents who we had succeeded in contacting were sent a postcard in order to maintain contact and to check for any recent changes of address.

As a result of this exercise, the names of 1,631 respondents with known telephone numbers were issued for the telephone campaign and post-election survey waves, and 2,062 (including those without telephones or whose 'phone numbers we could not trace) remained in the sample for a face-to-face interview.

3.2 The campaign and post-election telephone surveys

A small-scale pre-test of the campaign survey of the questionnaire was carried out in December 1991. Five interviewers working at SCPR's telephone interviewing unit carried out a total of 32 interviews among a sample of respondents to the 1991 British Social Attitudes survey. As a result, the questionnaire was shortened considerably to meet its target length of around six minutes.

The election was called on Wednesday 11 March. The campaign phase of the survey began on Thursday 19 March and continued until Wednesday 8 April, the day before polling day, giving three full weeks of interviewing (excluding Sundays). Fieldwork was carried out from SCPR's telephone interviewing unit by 12 trained SCPR interviewers. Each panel member was allocated to one of the eighteen interviewing days, the 1st, 19th, 37th etc. person being allocated to Day 1, the 2nd, 20th, 38th etc. person to Day 2 and so on. In practice, numbers for each day were made up from subsequent days' batches to compensate for unproductives. In addition, interviewers continued throughout the fieldwork period to try those individuals not contacted on the day to which they had originally been allocated. The gross response rate for the campaign survey interviewing was 81 per cent (n=1323), the net response rate was 89 per cent and an average of 74 interviews were carried out each day.

Respondents who were successfully interviewed in the campaign survey were telephoned again after the election and asked to give a further (2-3 minute) interview.³ A total of 1,203 interviews were achieved, representing 96 per cent of the issued sample. The aim was to conduct interviews immediately after the election. In the event, most of the interviewing (80 per cent) was carried out on Friday 10 April, the day following the election. Fourteen per cent of respondents were interviewed on the second day after the election, with the remaining 6 per cent of interviews taking place between 12th and 14th April.

Response to the telephone surveys was as follows:

³ With the exception of 71 cases not issued for post-election interview due to administrative error.

3.3 The panel face-to-face interview survey

The largest possible number of panel members (2,062) were approached for a face-to-face interview after the election. This included all those already interviewed by telephone, those who had been approached but who had declined to participate in the telephone interview, those who responded positively to the tracing exercise but for whom we had no telephone number, and those from whom we had no reply during the tracing exercise.

Main fieldwork was preceded by a small-scale pilot, carried out in December 1991 (see section 2.2 above). This was used to test not only new questions asked in the Cross-section survey, but also certain aspects of the panel survey - in particular, the 'life-history' questions.

Interviewers were drawn from SCPR's trained fieldforce, and were briefed by members of the research team. (Since the great majority of interviewers had also been allocated addresses on the Cross-section sample, both parts of the survey were briefed at the same time.) 192 interviewers carried out face-to-face interviews with panel members.

Interviewing of panel members began on 13 April 1992 (by which time virtually all the telephone interviewing had been completed), and 96 per cent of interviews took place before the end of May; the last interview was conducted on 7 August. The face-to-face interview lasted on average between 55 and 56 minutes. Panel members who had agreed to a face-to-face interview were also asked to fill in a short self-completion supplement; over 97 per cent of them did so.

As in the Cross-section survey, respondents either gave the supplement to the interviewer to return to the office, or returned it themselves in the pre-paid, pre-addressed envelope provided. The cases of respondents to the face-to-face interview who did not fill in a self-completion supplement appear as missing on the relevant variables in the SPSSX system file (as for the Cross-section survey).

A total of 1,608 panel members were interviewed face-to-face, and 1,565 of these returned a self-completion questionnaire. The names of some potential respondents who were proving elusive, or (less frequently) reluctant to be interviewed, were reissued during the final weeks of fieldwork. The reissue phase resulted in 56 productive interviews and raised response by 3.2 per cent. The final response rate achieved was 87 per cent net and 78 per cent gross. The full response breakdown is as follows:

3.4 Weighting

The Panel dataset was weighted to compensate to some extent for the effects of differential attrition. The aim was to make the various groups of respondents at the different panel stages representative of the 1987 cross-sectional sample simply in terms of voting behaviour in the 1987 General Election (as reported in the 1987 cross-section survey).

There are several potential limitations to this. One is the necessary assumption underlying the weighting, that people who stayed in the panel are representative of those who did not. Even if this assumption is correct, the effectiveness of the weighting will also depend on the strength of the relationship between voting behaviour in 1987, and the panel variables of interest.

The (merged 1987/92) SPSS system file now consists of a 5-wave panel:

Wave 1	N=3,826	1987 cross-section
Wave 2	N=1,323	1992 March/April: Stage 1 - election campaign ('phone)
Wave 3	N=1,203	1992 April: Stage 2 - post-election ('phone)
Wave 4	N=1,608	1992 April/May/June: Stage 3 - face-to-face

The principle employed is that the weight will depend on the particular group of cases of interest to data analysts. These have been identified as members of:

- Waves 1 and 2
- Waves 1, 2 and 3
- Waves 1, 2 and 3 and 4
- Waves 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5
- Waves 1 and 4
- Waves 1, 4 and 5

Weights for these six groups have been added to the SPSS-x system file; they are named Wt12, Wt123, Wt1234, Wt12345, Wt14 and Wt145.

Note that the 1987 cross-section data should itself be weighted, to offset differential levels of response between the regions. This weight is already incorporated into the weights names above. If data from 1987 are used alone, they must be weighted using the variable weight. The weighting for 1987 must also be incorporated into any additional weights constructed by users themselves.

As explained, the basic weighting policy has been to use the voting profile of Wave 1 respondents (that is voting behaviour in 1987) as a benchmark. So in analysing Wave 2, for example, the distribution of Wave 2's 1987 vote is adjusted to replicate the distribution in Wave 1.

The weighting variable is voting behaviour in 1987 (V8a in the system file). For the weighting of the panel data, this is recategorised into a simplified variable, vote87. The distribution of vote87 in the 1987 cross-section was:

Respondents:
Category	Original codes	New Code	N	%
Did not vote/DK	-1,98	-1	536	14.01
Conservative	1	1	1413	36.93
Labour	2	2	994	25.98
Liberal/SDP	3	3	751	19.63
Other party	5,6,7,8,9	4	44	1.15
Refused to say	97	97	89	2.33

Note: this is based on the 1987 data weighted to Region.

The final column (% distribution) is the numerator used in calculating the weight.

The denominator is found from the distribution of this recoded variable for the panel group of interest. For example, for respondents to Waves 2 and 3, the distribution of vote87 was:

	N	%
Did not vote/DK	106	8.80
Conservative	479	39.78
Labour	285	23.67
Liberal/SDP	294	24.42
Other party	15	1.25
Refused to say	26	2.16

Note: this, too, is based on the 1987 data weighted to Region.

So to calculate the weight, the % column is the denominator - for example, the weight for non-voters is $14.01/8.80 (=1.59)$, for Conservatives $36.93/39.78 (=0.928)$, and so on.

To make analysis more straightforward, the cases for which the weight is not applicable - in the above example, cases which are not members of Waves 2 and 3 - should be given a zero weight.

3.5 Variable names

Variable names are based on question number in most cases, and consist of question number preceded by a letter:

- V - 1987 survey
- W - 1992 Stage 1 Campaign telephone interview
- X - 1992 Stage 2 Post-election telephone interview
- Y - 1992 Stage 3 Post-election face-to-face and self-completion

In the 1987 survey, variables on the self-completion supplement are numbered V101 (thus V101a, V101b ... V102 and so on).

In Stage 3 of the 1992 survey (the face-to-face interview), variables in the classification section at the end are numbered from Y301 (thus Y301a, Y301b ... Y302 and so on); variables on the self-completion supplement are numbered from Y201, Y202 and so on.

Other variable names, which do not follow the question-number convention - such as occupation and class variables - should be self-explanatory. The dataset also contained a small number of derived variables.

3.6 Other conventions employed

BGES panel datasets and SPSSX set-up files

The combined 1987/1992 SPSSX system file contains 1987 data for all cases that were productive in the 1987 survey and 1992 data for those cases that were productive in at least one stage of the 1992 panel survey. Cases have the same serial number in 1987 and 1992. The panel file contains 3,826 cases.

The derived variable Panel provides a summary of the stages of the 1992 part of the panel in which respondents participated. The codes and SPSS value labels are:

Code	SPSS value labels	Panel waves
1	Camp,post,f-f,s-c	1,2,3,4,5
2	Camp,post,f-f	1,2,3,4
3	Camp,post	1,2,3
4	Campaign only	1,2
5	Camp,f-f,s-c	1,2,4,5
6	Camp,f-f	1,2,4
7	Post-elctn only	1,3
8	Post,f-f,s-c	1,3,4,5
9	Post,f-f	1,3,4
10	F-f,s-c	1,4,5
11	Face-to-face only	1,4

SPSS `missing' cases

The cases of panel members who did not participate at all in a particular stage of the panel surveys (1987 self-completion; 1992 stage 1, 2 or 3 or the self-completion supplement) appear as missing on the relevant variables in the system file; SPSS does not treat them as valid. To exclude them altogether, data users use the Panel variable to select only those cases productive in the stages in which they are interested.

Skips

At various points in the survey, questions were asked of subsamples of respondents while others were routed past such questions. On some variables more than one filter operated simultaneously. Cases which were filtered out (or skipped) are defined as -1 (or -2 or -3) and are labelled "Skipped" with the definition of the skip (as space allows).

`Not answered'

Where a case was productive at one or more stages of the survey but there are no data on a particular variable (ie, a particular question was not answered) the case is defined as 9 (or 99 or 999 or 9999) on each variable that was "Not answered"

Don't knows

"Don't know" responses are usually coded 8 (or 98 or 998); these should be treated as valid categories.

3.7 Constituency numbers

Thirteen cases are missing all constituency numbers (old and new OPCS, old and new PA); these cases are coded 999. New OPCS constituency numbers are missing for all cases in Scotland. (See section 2.8 above)

1. Background

In the summer of 1987 SCPR interviewed about 4000 people immediately after the general election. This was part of a series of post-election surveys, going back to the general election of 1964. The series seeks to understand more clearly the reasons why people vote as they do, looking at views on current election issues, general political attitudes and preferences, and personal circumstances and backgrounds. These studies are well known, and are much used by journalists, political scientists and politicians themselves.

The book from the 1987 survey was published last year. Entitled 'Understanding Political Change', it was written by members of the research team from Oxford University and SCPR and was very well received with a lot of coverage in newspapers, radio and even on television.

Three of the book's authors, Anthony Heath, John Curtice and Roger Jowell are again members of the current BGES team. The other members are Lindsay Brook and Gillian Prior of SCPR. A book on the results of the 1992 study is planned for next year.

This year's study is in three parts:

- 1 Very short telephone interviews, during and immediately after the election campaign, with people whom we interviewed in 1987 (P 1160)
- 2 Face-to-face interviews with the same sample of electors, beginning on the Monday after the election. Around 2,000 names have been issued. These respondents (we call them panel sample members) will also be asked to fill in a short self-completion questionnaire. This is P 1155 for which there is a separate set of Project Instructions.
- 3 Face-to-face interviews with a new sample of electors drawn from the current electoral registers. We hope to interview about 3800 people in England, Scotland and Wales. These respondents will also have a self-completion questionnaire to fill in. These instructions deal with this part of the study (P 1151 in England and Wales and P 1185 in Scotland). Most interviewers, however, will have both panel and new sample addresses in their assignments.

The new sample study is funded jointly by the Sainsbury Family Charitable Trusts and by the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC). Instead of carrying out the annual British Social Attitudes (BSA) survey (on which some interviewers will have worked), the 1991/92 grant from the Sainsbury Family Trusts is being used to carry out this study. So this study, like BSA and all the BGES studies, is academically based and impartial. It is completely independent of political parties and interest groups, the government or the media.

2. Special Scottish extension

This year there is a special Scottish extension to the BGES. Colleagues in the Department of Government at the University of Strathclyde have obtained additional funding from the ESRC to carry out extra interviews in Scotland. 950-1000 interviews, instead of the 250-300 we might expect had we not sampled extra addresses. Also, respondents in Scotland are being asked some 30 or so extra questions (not asked in England and Wales). This means that the BGES team of researchers and our colleagues in Glasgow will be able to examine in much more depth issues that are particularly relevant to the Scottish people at this time. Our colleagues in Scotland (with whom we have worked closely in developing the extra questions) will be producing a book of their own which will concentrate on Scottish issues

Most of the survey materials are the same, whether you are interviewing north or south of the border. But a few supplies are different

- the explanatory letter
- the scale booklets
- the show cards

(see next section) But the face-to-face interview questionnaire is the same. There are clear filter instructions for the extra questions asked only in Scotland. The self-completion questionnaires too are identical, and there is just one set of Project Instructions

We are asking interviewers working in Scotland to claim fees and expenses under Project No. P.1185. This will help us in our cost control over the survey budget

3. Supplies of survey materials

These are the materials you will need for your new sample assignment

- 1 Address Record Forms (white) - 1 for each elector in your assignment.
- 2 Explanatory letter
 - white for England and Wales - leave one behind with each respondent
 - green for Scotland
- 3 Interview questionnaire (white) - 1 for each respondent
- 4 Scale booklet
 - white for England and Wales - 1 for each respondent
 - green for Scotland
- 5 Show cards
 - A-P, X1-X9 for England and Wales (white front card) - 1 per interviewer
 - A-P, SA-SK, X1-X9 for Scotland (green front card)
- 6 Address Record Forms for movers (pink front page) - use as necessary
- 7 Self-completion questionnaire (white) - 1 for each respondent
- 8 Pre-paid A5 envelopes (for respondents to return their self-completion questionnaires to the Office, in case you cannot pick them up yourself)
- 9 Project Instructions (this document)
- 10 Book notification form (same for both panel and new samples) - use as necessary

11 Non-response form (white) - use when needed

The Field Office will have supplied you with the other documents and forms you need, including appointment cards, a Police Notification Form and the Admin Note. Please check your pack to make sure you have all the supplies you need before starting work

Please ensure too that you take the right documents with you for new sample interviews. If you use the wrong interview questionnaire, or leave behind the wrong self-completion questionnaire, neither can be used

4. Notifying the police

You must notify the local police station in the area where you will be working. You should complete a copy of the Police Notification Form that has been included in your supplies. This explains, among the other things, how long you will be working in the area, how you can be contacted, and includes your car registration number. Attach a copy of both of the explanatory letters for respondents to the form and hand it in to the police. (You might try and see if it is possible to record these details in the day book at the station desk.) Make a note of the name of the officer to whom you speak, and the date of your call, so that in the event of any query or complaint to the police, you are fully covered. It is reassuring for elderly or suspicious informants to be told that the police know about you and the survey, and that they can check with the police station.

Please do not start until you have done this

5. The sample

The new sample of addresses is drawn from the current electoral registers. Since these came into force only a few weeks before the start of fieldwork, there should be relatively few movers or other sorts of deadwood in your sample. The names of 24 electors in each of 218 constituencies have been drawn at random. So the issued sample sizes are

England and Wales 159 constituencies x 24 = 3,816 names
Scotland 59 constituencies x 24 = 1,416

All the addresses should be fairly close together, as they usually fall within one Polling District. The exceptions are some rural areas where two adjacent Polling Districts have been combined to give a better spread of respondents. This will be especially true of rural Scotland where we have included in the sample constituencies normally excluded because the population is generally very sparse and scattered.

You must try to interview ONLY the person named on the Address Record Form. No substitutes can be accepted in any circumstances.

Since we are interested only in people who are eligible to vote, we are able to select directly from electoral registers, it is the named people, not the addresses, we are interested in. But some special cases arise which you should be aware of Institutions Some selected electors may be resident in institutions, such as old people's homes, sheltered housing and so on. These people are also eligible for interview and should be followed-up in the normal way

Movers People who have moved from the address we have given you are still entitled to vote. So it is vital that we follow up movers whenever possible.

Instructions are given in Section 9 below

Under 18s To be eligible to vote, a person must have had their 18th birthday on or before the date of an election. Young people whose 18th birthday falls within the year that the particular register is in force are listed in the register and have their date of birth entered.

If in any doubt about the named elector's eligibility to vote, check his or her age before beginning the interview. For example, "May I just check that you are over 18?"

Peers Peers can vote in local elections but not general elections, and should not have been drawn at the sampling stage.

Electors on two or more registers Some people are legitimately on the electoral registers of more than one constituency e.g. students at their home address and registers at their college address, and owners of second homes. In local elections, they are entitled to vote in both constituencies. Similarly, movers also sometimes appear on two registers, having put themselves down in their new area, without having had their names removed from the registers in their old area. In a general election, each elector is entitled to only one vote. But if you find that any respondent voted in a constituency other than the one through which he/she was selected (and in which you are interviewing), the interview should still be taken and a note made on the questionnaire.

6. Contacting procedures

As with any SCPR survey, it is very important that we achieve a high response rate, so that we can feel confident in the representativeness of our findings. So you must attempt to contact every name in your assignment. You must call on at least 4 occasions, at different times of day and at suitably spaced times before you classify the address as unproductive. At least one of these calls should be in the evening (after 6 p.m.) and one at the weekend.

As usual, we want to reduce the number of non-contacts to a minimum, please keep calling on non-contacts as long as you are interviewing in the area. And remember we have found that many refusals are circumstantial, if you sense a respondent may be about to refuse, it often helps if you withdraw, offering to call again at a more convenient time, before a refusal is actually given. If someone refuses by saying they're too busy, about to go on holiday and so on, you may be able to call back later and explain that you realised they were too busy before, but as you were in the area you wondered if you might arrange an appointment for a more convenient time.

Please contact your Field Controller before returning any Address Record Form (ARF) for untraceable addresses. We may well be able to provide some information which will help you locate addresses that are hard to find.

But please return completed ARFs for all other deadwood addresses to the Brentwood Field Office as soon as possible. Also return the ARFs for all firm refusals (those that you think you yourself have no chance of converting), together with a Non-response form.

The interview should last, on average, around an hour, but a little longer with Scottish respondents.

7. Introducing the survey

Show your Identity Card when you introduce yourself. If you think you are likely to get an interview, you can give the person you first contact a copy of the explanatory letter, or the SCPR leaflet, as part of your introduction. You must leave a copy of the letter and the SCPR leaflet with each respondent you interview.

We have found that the best introduction for interviewers to use is the one they feel most comfortable with. And it is vital to start at the beginning and explain the purpose of the survey to each person you see at an address, don't assume a husband, wife or parent of the selected respondent has passed the information on.

Here is an introduction you may wish to use as the basis for your own.

"Good morning/afternoon/evening. My name is _____, and I work for Social and Community Planning Research, a non-profit social research institute. (SHOW IDENTITY CARD) We are carrying out a special study about the general election we have just had. It is the latest in a series of studies that have taken place after every general election since 1964. After each one, a book is published about people's views on election issues and what sorts of things influenced their decisions about voting. The book is based on interviews with people selected at random from the electoral register, and gives a representative view of what people in Britain think and feel about the election. Your name has been selected - and I'd like to ask you to take part. If it isn't convenient now, I can call back at some other time."

Don't press the respondent for an appointment if he or she is vague or reluctant, leave the letter and leaflet and call back unannounced.

8. Questions you may be asked

Here are some of the sorts of questions you may be asked, and suggestions about how to answer them.

Q How do I know that what I tell you will be treated in confidence?

A First, SCPR makes every effort to keep the information you give us confidential. Your rights as a respondent, and the way in which we honour those rights are set out in the leaflet about SCPR that I've given you (SCPR is registered under the Data Protection Act)

Q Why should I take part?

A Surveys are voluntary but it is important that a true cross-section of the public takes part if we are to get an accurate picture of people's views. This means that we want to know the views of everyone in our sample. If a lot of people refuse to take part, then we cannot be sure that our results really reflect the views of all people, not just those with particular viewpoints. No special knowledge is needed. Even if you have no strong views, we want your opinions, as that too is representative of public attitudes.

Q I'm not sure ...

A. Even if you're not sure, do please allow the interview to start and see how you get along. You can stop at any stage if you wish to.

Q How do I know you are a genuine researcher/research organisation?

A. First, you have a letter from the research team at SCPR. The letter describes the survey and explains why your co-operation is important. There are telephone numbers at which you can contact the researchers at SCPR if you have any further questions to ask.

Second, we are leaving you a leaflet about SCPR which is an independent non-profit making institute for survey research.

Third, you can check with the _____ police station.

Finally, you have seen my Identity Card.

Q. What happens to the results?

A. The results of the 1987 survey were published as a book about the election called 'Understanding Political Change'.

In it, results are presented only in summary or statistical form, revealing no individual views or identities. The book was well received, and widely reviewed in newspapers, television and on radio. A book on this year's survey will be published next year. If you like, I can give you a form to fill in, so that you will be notified when it comes out. Your local library will be able to get a copy.

Q I'm too old/not interested enough in politics

A We want to get the view of everybody. No special knowledge is necessary and we want to talk to people who are not particularly interested in politics as well as those who are. There are some questions about matters besides politics which we would like to get your views on.

Q Can't you ask someone else?

A Because this sample was selected to be a cross-section of people in Britain, I can only interview the people who are named in my assignment. I am not allowed to take substitutes.

9. Address Record Form

This is the form on which your assignment of addresses is issued. For the new sample (P 1151 and P 1185), it is white.

Besides giving the named elector's address, the ARF has two other purposes:

- it provides space for you to record details of all the calls you make, and the outcomes
- and - in case you do not achieve an interview - you use it to code the reason.

It works just like a normal questionnaire and you should follow the filter instructions in the normal way.

You will see that the named elector, his or her address and the serial number are given on labels on the first page of the ARF. NO SUBSTITUTE MAY BE TAKEN UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES

The label at the top left of the page also contains the address serial number, SN (4 digits plus a check letter), the Field Office area, FA (1 digit) and the sample point no. SP (3 digits).

Also on the first page, you will see that there is space for you to keep a note of the times, dates and results of all your calls. Please remember to fill this in at each separate visit: it will help you to plan any further visits you may have to make and helps other interviewers in case of reissues. (There are spaces for you to fill in the exact time of each call, if it helps.)

From here on, you fill in the ARF just like a questionnaire. Among the points to note are:

- Q.6 If your named elector has moved and there is a chance of following him or her up, ring either code A or code 32 and go to Q 12.
- Q.7 A partial interview (code 52) is one where at least half of the main part of the questionnaire (up to p 20) is filled in, plus most or all of the classification section (pp.41-58)
- Q.8 Please give reasons (as fully as possible) for all unproductive cases. For most unproductives, we are asking you to fill in a Non-response form (see below)
- Q.9 How the self-completion questionnaire is being returned (see Section 12 of these Instructions)
- Q.11 At Q 924d on the interview questionnaire, you will be asking for a 'stable address', that is an address of someone who might know of the respondent's whereabouts if he or she has moved when we try to get in contact with that person again (perhaps the address of a friend or relative who is unlikely to move)

Details should be entered at Q 11 of the ARF (including a telephone number, if volunteered)

Q.12 This part of the ARF should be filled in only if you find that the named elector has moved. If he or she has moved locally, please record the new address and follow up the named elector yourself, using a pink ARF

If the named elector has moved outside your calling area, please record any information you do have, and return the ARF to the Field Office. It will be sent to another interviewer to follow up

- If you obtain an interview with the named respondent, please return the ARF in a separate envelope from the questionnaire(s) relating to this respondent
- If you do not obtain an interview with the named respondent, complete all you can of the ARF and return it to the Field Office as soon as you possibly can. We are also asking you to fill in a Non-response form for all named electors coded 72, 73 and 74 (refusals and broken appointments) coded 71 (non-contacts) and 75 and 76 (ill, away or in hospital). Please attach this to your ARF and return them both to the Office.

THE ARF MUST BE RETURNED TO THE FIELD OFFICE IN ORDER FOR YOUR WORK TO BE BOOKED IN

10. The interview questionnaire : general guidelines

- 1 A feature of such a wide-ranging questionnaire is that people are likely to be more interested in some questions than in others. The particular interviewing challenge is to establish the right speed at which to progress through the questions. Rushing the respondent must clearly be avoided, but an over-deliberate approach would be equally inadvisable. It may be that some respondents want to give a great deal of thought to some of the issues, but we are seeking to capture present attitudes, not to enter into a discussion. If they cannot answer the question as posed, it is quite acceptable to code or enter DK or an 'other answer', and move on to the next question.
- 2 At questions where a space has been provided for 'other answers', they should be recorded verbatim. There is also a code that should be ringed when an 'other answer' is entered.

In the questions where there is no specific provision for 'other answers', none is anticipated. But should they occur, they should be entered somewhere near the question. As a general rule for questions where no 'other answer' space is provided, first repeat the question with appropriate emphasis before accepting an 'other answer'. You can also use phrases like "Generally", "In general", etc as probes, otherwise repeating the question wording exactly

- 3 Questions at which you read out the code list as part of the question are clearly indicated as * READ OUT * Read out the full list until you reach the question mark Do not read out the precodes at other questions

- 4 At many questions there is an explicit instruction "DO NOT PROMPT"/ These are mainly questions to which the answer will be the name of a political party In no circumstances should you read out any part of the code list in those questions - code the answer as given
- 5 Whenever a general phrase is used, and a respondent asks for explanation, you should follow normal SCPR practice and re-read the question, explaining to the respondent that he or she should answer in terms of whatever he or she understands by the phrase
- 6 Where a 'don't know' code is included among the precodes, this generally means that 'don't know' is a legitimate and acceptable response Practically no-one can be expected to have a view about every political issue covered in the questionnaire, and we certainly do not want to push anyone into stating a view that he or she does not really hold Be sure you give respondents time to consider their answers, and use your interviewing skills to judge when a gentle (unpushy!) probe may be appropriate
- 7 We are asking respondents to fill in a 'scale booklet' themselves, merely by ticking boxes We hope this will add variety to the interview, as well as speed it up But please be sure to carry a pencil with you, so that you have one to hand to the respondent.
- 8 The questionnaire has been divided into sections, each of which deals with a broadly defined group of subjects However, respondents do not need to be made aware of the different sections of the questionnaire, since it is designed to be administered as a single unit. But knowing about the structure may help you to find your way through it

10. The interview questionnaire

Most of the questions are very straightforward This section of the Instructions draws attention only to those that need some comment.

- Q 2b Code one newspaper only in each column at b. If more than one paper is read equally frequently, write the papers in as "Other" and code 16 in the appropriate column
The question asks about daily morning papers only - not Sunday, or weekly or evening papers Be sure to record the name in full if a regional or local daily morning paper is named
- Q A6 Ask this question if the respondent's serial number is even If it is odd, skip to Q.7. Please enter the serial number in the boxes provided at Q 5 to make sure that you are asking the correct question of each respondent
- Q 7a This question is carefully worded to avoid making anyone feel that it is wrong not to vote Be sure that you do not convey that impression
- Q 7b Make sure you probe fully for reasons, getting information that clarifies each reason and getting all reasons that apply Record verbatim, but remember that office coders will be reading the answers - so clarify words like "them", "that lot" and so on, as necessary

- Q 9a Check that any party coded at Q 9a is not also coded at c
- Q 9c Please note that this is a question about voting at the general election. The answer could be quite different from the party that the respondent usually supports or feels close to
- Q 10 Code 3 at a. is likely to pick up 'tactical' or 'protest' voters. If asked, you may confirm that we are interested in tactical voting
- Q 11 If asked, you may say that the question is about proportional representation
- Q B13 Ask this question if the respondent's serial number is odd. If it is even, skip to Q 14. Please enter the serial number in the boxes provided at Q 12 to make sure that you are asking the correct questions of each respondent

Respondents whose serial numbers are even will have already been asked these questions (Qs.5 and 6).

- Q 14 England - ask a -d only
Scotland - ask a -d and e
Wales - ask a -d and f

- Qs.16 Do not read out the precodes in brackets
-20 Ask these 5 questions, about all the parties before going on to the next question

Scotland - ask d about the Scottish National Party as well

- Q 21 Ask this question about the SNP in Scotland only

- Qs 22 Again, do not read out the precodes in brackets.
-25 Ask each of these 4 questions about all three party leaders in turn before going on to the next question

- Q 26 Read out a -j. carefully. If a respondent misunderstands any item, you may need to re-read it slowly, asking the full question again. In any event, please repeat the question where you see a broken line across the page.

- Q.29a Show the appropriate card AND read out the questions

Q.30
Q.31ab

- Q 34 At this point the questionnaire divides. Enter the respondent's serial number in the boxes provided. If it is even, administer scale booklet pages A1 to A5, if it is odd, skip to Q B40 and administer booklet pages B1 to B3. Booklet pages B1 to B3 have a yellow stripe at the bottom, to enable you to flip to these pages more easily

Scale booklet

- Q A35 - Unemployment and inflation
Q.A36 - Taxation and government services

- Q A37 - Nationalisation and privatisation
- Q A38 - Redistribution
- Q A39 - European Community
- Q B40 - Defence
- Q B41 - Welfare
- Q B42 - Women's rights

These eight questions make use of the scale booklet. The first five have an eleven point scale, and the last three a seven point scale. Otherwise they are identical in format.

Important. The scales are different from those used in the panel sample questionnaire. Please make sure you use the correct scale booklet (white) in England and Wales, or green in Scotland.

The instructions at the top of each page should be read out in full to respondents to explain the use of the scales. As will be seen, they are self-completion scales, but ask the respondent to read out the answers at the end of each question so that you can ring the appropriate codes in the grid. One code is to be ringed in each column, i.e. four codes in all for each question or five for respondents in Scotland who are asked about the SNP as well.

It is at these questions that the respondent will need a pencil (or pen)

At the first of these questions (A 35 or B 40), please ensure that the respondent has grasped the principle of what he or she has to do. Otherwise re-explain it as necessary. Unless the principle is grasped at this question, you will have problems at each of the following scales. You may have to reassure respondents that we are interested only in approximate locations so that they need not worry too much about precision. Also it is their opinions we are seeking, not factual information.

Get the respondent to tick all the scales on each page before asking for the letter codes. As they tell you the letter codes, repeat them to the respondent while you code. This will minimise errors due to mishearing. Then remember to also ask for the letter code.

Please see the Interviewer Note at the bottom of each question - if asked, you may confirm that 'F' is the centre (the middle box) on pages A1 to A5, and 'D' is the centre on pages B1 to B3.

Particular points to note at these questions

- 1) MOST IMPORTANT Do not forget to put respondent's serial number on the front of the booklet before returning it to the office together with the appropriate questionnaire.
- 11) When pointing along the scales at each of these questions, make sure you point literally from left to centre (A-F or A-D) and from right to centre, (K-F or G-D) without stopping on end- or mid-points. Otherwise you may (without meaning to) indicate a particular box to the respondent.

- iii) As with other questions, if respondent really does not know, accept it and ring 98 in the appropriate column
 - iv) If the respondent feels their own, or a party's, position is beyond the end of a scale, use code 12 or 13 as appropriate
 - v) These scale questions worked well in 1983 and 1987. They should work for almost all respondents though there will inevitably be a few (partially sighted, etc.) for whom they will be difficult. It may be possible to take these respondents through the scales orally, but if not, you will have to enter DK codes (98) throughout. Where an oral explanation is necessary, you may tell respondents that there are five (or three) boxes to the left of centre and five (or three) to the right of centre
 - vi) In the rare cases where, for one reason or another, a respondent can understand the task, but cannot do it by self-completion methods, you should fill in both the booklet and the ring codes on your questionnaire, and make a note on the booklet that you have done so. If the respondent cannot, or refuses to, do any of the scale questions, write the reason at A 35 and ask all the other (non-scale) questions
 - vii) Some people will grasp the principle very quickly and begin filling in the boxes for the remaining scale questions before you can finish reading out the contents of the box. If this happens, it does not matter PROVIDED that you have pointed out the two statements clearly to them before they rush into filling them in. And remember they have to tell you after each page which boxes they have ticked, so that you can ring the codes for that question before going on to the next
- Q 50 Read out a - 1 carefully. If a respondent misunderstands any item, you may need to re-read slowly, asking the full question again. In any event, please repeat the question where you see the broken line across the page.
- Q54a Vary the question wording as instructed, according to whether you are interviewing in England, Scotland or Wales
- Q 57 This question is asked in Scotland only. At Q 55a. or 55b, you will almost certainly have coded either 'middle class' or 'working class'. If 'middle class', the question would read "Would you say you had more in common with middle class English people or working class Scottish people?"
If 'working class', vice versa
If neither class was named at Q 55a. or b, omit the question.
- Q 60a Ask in Scotland and England only
- Q.60b Ask in Wales only
At both these questions, show the appropriate card AND read out the response options
- Qs 63 Ask these questions in Scotland only. In England and Wales, skip to the Classification to 79 Section. The section of 'Scotland only' questions is marked with a green stripe at the edge of the page, to enable you to skip to the Classification Section more easily

Scottish Section

- Q 63 Ask only if the respondent has said, in reply to Q 61, that he or she feels Scottish
 Otherwise go to Q 64 If you skip Q 62 remember to show the respondent/card SB (not card SA) at Q 64
 Probe with 'Any others?' until the answer is 'no' Code all that apply /
 The rest of the section is straightforward

Classification

- Q901a If the respondent names two or more parties, repeat the question stressing the 'usually'
 &b If two or more parties still given, code 08 ('varied')
- Qs902 At these questions, we wish to collect occupational details of the respondent's father, the 905 & respondent and the respondent's spouse Please probe fully for all relevant details, 908 if any are missing, we may not be able to code occupations accurately
- Qs902e 'Self-employed' refers to work done on the person's own account, not being taxed 905e & through PAYE Some self-employed persons will have their own business, some will 908e have casual or intermittent work A person in a one-man business is not necessarily self-employed, if the business is a company, he or she may well be an employee of the company, drawing a salary and being taxed through PAYE
- Qs902g At this question and elsewhere, the place of work is the establishment at or from which 905h the respondent works This will ordinarily have a single address. The respondent's 908h employer may of course run several establishments but the others are not relevant
 Several questions refer to the workplace so it must be clearly established at this question
- Q903a Economic Position The respondent may well choose several items on Card XI showing various types of economic activity undertaken 'last week' - that is the seven days ending last Sunday. These should all be coded on Column I The highest on the list (the first that applies) or the one category, if there is only one, should then be transferred to Column II (ECONOMIC POSITION) If you interview on a Sunday, the seven days are the ones ending the previous Sunday

The following notes explain the items on CARD XI at Q 901a a little more fully

- A/01 In full-time education (not paid for by employer, including on vacation).
 All students, even those doing vacation jobs during the last week, are to be coded in this category If the student is on vacation and will continue to be a student only if he or she passes an exam, assume that the exam will be passed and still treat the respondent as in full-time education People on government training programmes (ET, etc) are EXCLUDED from this category They should be counted as B/02
- B/02 On government training/employment programme
 People on government-sponsored training or employment programmes should be coded here They should not be coded as 'In paid work' or 'In full-time education' (even if they are doing the educational part of the programme)

C/03 In paid work for at least 10 hours in the week (or away temporarily from that work)
 This category includes all types of paid work, whether for an employer, or on the respondent's own account as self-employed. It includes casual, part-time and temporary work provided that it amounts to at least 10 hours in the week /

Voluntary work, or work carried out where only expenses are reimbursed, or work paid for in kind (eg receiving board and lodging only) where there is no financial transaction, are EXCLUDED from this category

People temporarily away would include those who were absent from work last week because of sickness or injury, holiday, compassionate leave, or maternity leave, provided that they have a job to go back to with the same employer, or as self-employed, in the same field. It would also include people who were temporarily laid off, or on strike, or locked out, again provided that they have a job with the same employer to go back to, or to the same self-employed status (eg an actor 'resting' between jobs)

People whose contract of employment incorporates regular but intermittent work are included in this category. Examples are some staff in educational institutions, or professional sportsmen, whose wages are paid only during term-time or in the season (and who therefore may not have worked last week)

D/04 Waiting to take up paid work already accepted

This category covers people not in work last week but who have a definite agreement to start work on a set date. It does not include people who have been given a vague promise of a job if and when a vacancy occurs

E/05 Unemployed and registered at a benefit office

This category covers those who are both unemployed and registered as unemployed for benefit purposes. It does not cover those unemployed and registered only through the central or local government employment service (eg Jobcentres, local government careers offices)

F/06 Unemployed, not registered but actively looking for a job

This category includes all unemployed, not registered for benefit, but who are actively looking for a job. This would include people seeking work through central or local government employment service (Jobcentres, local authority careers offices, etc), people registered with private employment agencies, people answering advertisements for work, advertising for work or even people just actively looking around for opportunities

G/07 Unemployed, wanting a job but not actively looking for a job

Include here any unemployed (again not registered for benefit), but who are not actively looking for a job at the moment. People who, for instance, have given up looking for work would be included here, or those who are ill and temporarily unable to look for work. Respondents should normally be left to decide for themselves whether an illness in this case is temporary or not. If in doubt, include it if it has lasted less than six months

The remaining four categories cover those members of the population who are generally considered to be economically inactive

H/08 Permanently sick or disabled covers people of out work and not seeking work because of permanent (or indefinite) sickness or disability. People who have never worked because of disability are included. Do not include retired people in poor health who would not be seeking work even if they were healthy. In cases of doubt over whether an illness or disability is permanent, treat it as permanent if it has lasted continuously for six months or more.

J/09 Wholly retired from work covers people who have retired from their occupation at approximately the normal retirement age or who have taken 'early retirement', and are not seeking further employment of any sort. Retired people who are permanently sick or have become disabled still count as retired.

Women who leave work on marriage to look after the home or to raise a family and who have not worked for many years, should be classified as 'looking after the home' rather than as retired. But it is difficult to define retirement exactly. Apart from the proviso made about women, the respondent's description from the card should generally be accepted.

K/10 Looking after the home covers anyone more or less wholly involved in domestic duties. There can be more than one person in a household in this category. But at Q 301a. we are concerned only with the respondent's position.

L/11 Doing something else is not on the showcard. It covers anyone who does not fit into any of the eleven categories on the card. But remember that people who are in any kind of paid work (including casual jobs) or more than 10 hours in the week should not be included here.

Q 903c &d The staff association referred to at these questions is an organisation of employees recognised, like a union, by management for the negotiation of pay and other conditions of employment. In certain professions (eg banking) staff associations exist alongside or instead of trade unions.

Qs 904 & 905 We wish to collect occupational details of almost all respondents, excluding only those who have never had a job. Ask everyone else about their current, future or last job, as directed. If the respondent has never worked, write in at a.

Q905f If the respondent is in any doubt about how to classify his or her employer's organisation, write in a description at 'other' and code 07.

Q906a At this question you need not read out all the answer categories, if the respondent says 'widowed' (for example), you need not read out 'divorced or separated' and 'not married'.

Q906b See Notes on Economic Position at Q 903a above.

Q907 & 908 We need to collect occupational details for the respondent's spouse or partner. The same principles apply as at Qs 904 and 905.

Q909b We are asking these questions about schemes (eg BUPA and PPP) which provide for, and cover the cost of, private medical treatment and facilities. Do not include simple insurance schemes where the insured person receives a cash benefit when sick

- Q910a We do not need to know which recently privatised company's shares respondents own or owned - we are only interested in whether they have bought any. If they currently hold any shares they should be coded '1'. This takes priority over codes 2, 3 or 4. You may need to probe to establish which of codes 1-3 apply. Use code 4 only if this information is volunteered and none of 1-3 apply
- Qs 912 & 913 If a respondent has a qualification, he or she should be able to identify it from the show cards. Code all that apply. You should write in under 'other' any others the respondent mentions, but we are interested only in educational or vocational examinations or qualifications - not professional society memberships, leisure activities or St John's Ambulance first-aid certificates and so on
- Q914b Refers to any children including step-children or adopted children. "Yes" may still be the correct answer even if the child(ren) are not living at home (eg. at boarding school, away at college, living with divorced or separated spouse/partner) as long as the respondent has some responsibility for them
- Qs 916 & 917 Note that the first set of codes (01-11) all relate to different denominations of the Christian religion. Codes 12-17 relate to other (non-Christian) religions. If none of the pre-coded categories exactly corresponds with the respondent's religion, the answer should be written in as 'Other Protestant', 'Other Christian' or 'Other non-Christian' as appropriate
- Q 919b Tenure Note that this question applies to the whole accommodation that the respondent's household occupies, not just to the respondent's part of that accommodation, or to his or her relationship with the person(s) in the household who is/are legally responsible for the accommodation.
- Own leasehold or freehold outright those whose accommodation is wholly owned, i.e. they are not buying on a mortgage or with a loan.
- Buying leasehold or freehold those buying with a mortgage or loan, from a bank, insurance company, building society or other organisation. Also includes those buying as part of a co-ownership scheme, or those buying leasehold property when the lease is 21 years or more
- Rented property includes leases of fewer than 21 years. The rent need not be paid by a household member - it could be paid by another member of the family (e.g. son on behalf of mother) or by income support direct to the landlord.
- Q 919d & e Note that 'local authority' at this question includes those who have bought from the local council, or the GLC, the London Residuary Body or New Town Development Corporations. That is, it includes anyone who has bought housing that was previously owned by a public-sector body. And the ownership relates to the accommodation as a whole - as owned by the person responsible for the mortgage - not to the respondent's own ownership

- Q 921 The figure needed is the total income of the household from all sources before tax. Income includes not only earnings, but also state benefits, occupational and other pensions, unearned income such as interest from savings, rent and so on.
- The household income figure we want is gross, that is before the deduction of income tax, national insurance and other deductions. The question refers to current level of income or to the nearest tax or other period for which the respondent is able to answer (if that is more convenient).
- Q923b If the respondent does give a telephone number, record the number on the label on page 1 of the ARF, not on the questionnaire. But remember to code '1' here too.
- Q 923c Similarly, you need not ask this if you already have the respondent's postcode. But again, if you ask for it and are given it, record it on the ARF label, not on the questionnaire.
- Q924b Similarly, if a 'stable address' is given, write it on the ARF (at Q 11), not on the questionnaire.
- Qs 925a & b Remember to code both parts of this question as appropriate, to let us know if and how the self-completion questionnaire is going to be returned. And remember to code Q 9 on the ARF.
- Qs 925c Code the time you finished the interview (using the 24 hour clock), how long the interview lasted (in minutes), your interviewer number, and the date.

PLEASE REMEMBER TO ENTER THE RESPONDENT'S SERIAL NUMBER, THE SAMPLE POINT NUMBER AND YOUR INTERVIEWER NUMBER ON THE SELF-COMPLETION QUESTIONNAIRE BEFORE YOU GIVE IT TO THE RESPONDENT.

ALSO PUT A '1', '2' OR '3' IN THE 'Rec' BOX TO TELL US HOW YOU PLAN FOR THE SELF-COMPLETION QUESTIONNAIRE TO BE RETURNED

If you have any queries or problems, please telephone Lindsay Brook or Gillian Prior at SCPR (071 250 1866)

When you have finished

PLEASE MAKE SURE THAT THE ARF IS COMPLETELY FILLED IN

- RETURN THE COMPLETED ARF TO THE BRENTWOOD FIELD OFFICE SEND THE ARF IN A SEPARATE ENVELOPE, NOT WITH THE QUESTIONNAIRE
- CHECK THE MAIN QUESTIONNAIRE, AND THE SELF-COMPLETION QUESTIONNAIRE (IF YOU HAVE COLLECTED IT)
- DOUBLE-CHECK THAT YOU HAVE FILLED IN ALL THE IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS ON BOTH THE QUESTIONNAIRES, THE SCALE BOOKLET, AND THE ARF
- THEN RETURN BOTH QUESTIONNAIRES TO THE BRENTWOOD FIELD OFFICE AS SOON AS YOU CAN

12. The self-completion questionnaire

Respondents may fill in the self-completion questionnaire either

- Immediately after the interview, before you leave and while you are checking the first questionnaire Ideally, we would prefer it to be filled in then
- In the respondent's own time, after the interview In this case you will need either to call back to pick up the questionnaire, or to arrange for the respondent to post it back to Brentwood, in which case you must leave one of the A5 pre-paid addressed envelopes

You should never give the self-completion questionnaire to the respondent to fill in before the interview

Before handing over the self-completion questionnaire, there are some important things to remember

- 1 You should write the respondent's Serial Number, the Sample Point Number and your Interviewer Number in the boxes provided, before you hand over the questionnaire We strongly advise you to enter your Interviewer Number and Sample Point Number on all questionnaires before your first day in the field.

Without the respondent's Serial Number, the self-completion questionnaire cannot be used - and we will not be able to pay you for a completed questionnaire!

Please also write a code number in the 'Rec ' box on the front cover, as follows

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 | if you yourself are sending the self-completion questionnaire and the interview questionnaire back to the Office together Also ring code '1' at Q 9 on the ARF |
| 2 | if you yourself are sending back the self-completion questionnaire separately (after the main questionnaire) Also ring code '2' at Q 9 on the ARF |
| 3 | if you leave the questionnaire with the respondent for him or her to return direct to the Office Also ring code '3' at Q 9 on the ARF |
- 2 If you leave the self-completion questionnaire at an address after the interview, leave it only with the named respondent - the person you interviewed The self-completion questionnaire (like the interview) may be filled in only by the named respondent No substitute is acceptable

 - 3 If the respondent cannot fill in the questionnaire by the end of the visit at which you carry out the interview, please arrange to call back for it - provided you are still interviewing in that area (you could use one of your appointment cards to remind the respondent of when you are calling for the questionnaire) This helps remind the respondent how important the self-completion questionnaire is If this is not possible, you should leave a pre-paid A5 envelope and ask the respondent to post the self-completion questionnaire back to the office. If you do this please remember to ring code '3' at Q 9 on the ARF (We will then know whether or not to send out reminders to respondents whose questionnaires have not arrived)

 - 4 Never leave the respondent in any doubt as to how he or she should return the questionnaire. If you have arranged to call back for it, make sure that your respondent realises this and that you keep your appointment. If you cannot arrange to call back, make sure that the respondent knows it is to be posted back, and stress the need for (reasonable) speed

 - 5 If you do wait for the self-completion questionnaire or call to collect it later, please try to spend a minute checking through to see that it has all been filled in Any gaps can then be tactfully pointed out to the respondent and he or she should be asked to fill them in, even if it means writing in 'don't know' where appropriate

 - 6 On rare occasions, it might be clear that a willing respondent needs your help to complete the questionnaire, because of, say, poor eye-sight or illiteracy In such cases, treat the questionnaire as if it were an extension of the interview, and tick the boxes accordingly, with the respondent at your side

To the selected respondent:

Thank you very much for agreeing to take part in this important study of the British general election. This study is the ninth in the series which have taken place after every British general election since 1964. It consists of this self-completion questionnaire and the interview you have already completed. The results will be published in a book due out next year.

Completing the questionnaire

The questions inside cover a wide range of subjects, but each one can be answered simply by placing a tick (✓) in one or more of the boxes. No special knowledge is needed. We are sure that everyone will be able to take part, not just those with strong opinions or particular viewpoints. The questionnaire should not take long to complete, and we hope you will find it interesting and enjoyable. It should be filled in only by the person interviewed about the election. The answers you give will be treated as confidential and anonymous.

Returning the questionnaire

Your interviewer will arrange with you the most convenient way of returning the questionnaire. If the interviewer has arranged to call back for it, please fill it in and keep it safely until then. If not, please complete it and post it back to us in the pre-paid addressed envelope, as soon as you possibly can.

Thank you for your help

7b. Why respondent didn't (manage to) vote

Filter condition: 241/2

Up to five answers on cols. 242-51

- 01 Deliberately abstained - ie. in protest
eg. didn't like choices; all the same; no party/candidate worth voting for; unhappy with present policies/leadership of preferred party etc.; no party had issues or policies important to me/the country.
- Mutually exclusive with code 07 which must reflect genuine undecidedness; code 01 refers to deliberate decision not to vote, as protest.
- 02 Work prevented me
eg. shiftwork, worked late; long hours etc.
- 03 Sickness prevented me - respondent was ill/in poor health

(Code 05 should be used where reason given is illness of other household members; 03 if for reasons of respondent's own ill-health)
- 04 Away on election day
eg. on holiday; out of town; away on business; including didn't know/too late about arranging postal vote.

(Code 04 refers to temporary reasons for being absent on election day; cf. code 10 which relates to movers, ie. people who were no longer living at old address on election day)
- 05 Other commitments/no time
eg. illness in household; child care; just too busy etc.

(cf. note at Code 03)
- 06 Couldn't be bothered/not interested
eg. didn't care who won; makes no difference to respondent; doesn't help respondent personally.

(Whereas code 05 refers to people who thought they were objectively too busy to vote, code 06 refers to people being uninterested in voting, who didn't "make time" to vote)
- 07 Couldn't decide between parties or candidates - ambivalent, undecided
eg. liked/disliked some policies of each/both parties; couldn't support usual party but couldn't bring self to vote for another party.

(cf. note at code 01)
- 08 Vote wouldn't have affected who won
eg. already knew who would win; respondent's choice had no chance of winning (nationally or in constituency)

CONTINUED. . .

- 09 Religious reasons for not voting
eg. policy or particular religion not to vote (Jehovah's Witnesses etc); polling day was religious festival etc.
- 10 Respondent had moved including therefore not on (new area) electoral register; needed postal vote because of moving etc. (See note at code 04)
- 11 Polling card/polling station problem
eg. didn't receive or lost polling card; went to usual polling station but not registered there etc.
- 12 Never vote/ have never voted in my life
Must be explicit mention of respondent's habitual pattern of not voting. May be coded in addition to other codes, eg. if never votes because of lack of interest both codes 06 and 12 should be coded.
- 97 Other answers - include "no particular reason" for not voting. TAB AND LIST WITH SERIAL NUMBER
- 98 Don't know
Code only if no other code used
- 99 Not answered

Reasons why respondent did not complete scales

One code on column 380 (p1151/1185) / 541 (p1155)

- * Refers to general reasons for not completing all scales. Not to be used if only particular scales are not answered.
- * If column 380 / 541 is coded, all scale question columns should be blank
- 0 Booklet incorrectly completed - eg: multi-coded
- 1 Wrong version of scale booklet used
(ie. Scottish booklet in England or vice versa)
- 2 Respondent partially sighted/unwell/too old
Scales not completed on health grounds, whether or not interviewer asked or just assumed.
- 3 Respondent's English was not adequate
Does not include difficulties with reading, but with English language.
- 4 Respondent has reading difficulties: could not understand what he or she was supposed to do
Scales not completed because respondent could not read, was mentally handicapped, could not understand nature of task etc. All mentions of inability to understand or read.
- 5 Respondent "not capable"
All general mentions that respondent would be unable to do scales but where no specific reasons (codeable to 1, 2 or 3) were given.
- 6 Respondent not asked scales
Mentions not codeable under 1-4 above, where interviewer made judgement not to ask respondent: due to lack of time, fear that respondent would terminate interview etc.
- 7 Respondent refused/terminated interview etc
Refusals, 'cancellations' of interview etc.
- 8 Other answer
Other reason given, but not codeable above
- 9 No reason given
Scales are blank but no reason given by interviewer (check front of questionnaire, scale booklet etc.)

NB. If more than one reason given, code highest on list.

Q.902 Reasons why no details of father's job obtained

NB. 711/1 should be coded if no details of father's job

 If 711 is blank and there are no details, please code 711/1

If 711/1 code one of the following on column 712. If necessary, transfer answer from Q.901.

Col. 712

- 1 No details of father's job, but no reason given by interviewer
- 2 Father dead/deceased when respondent aged 14
- 3 Parents separated / father not living with family (hence respondent did not know his job)
- 4 Did not know father
- 5 Father permanently sick - hence no job; father never had a job
- 6 Father retired
- 7 Can't remember / Don't know
- 8 Other answers
- 9 Respondent refused to give details (ie. not blank, but note that respondent refused information)

Notes for coding other religions (Codes 10, 11 and 17)

First, you need to distinguish between Other Protestant (code 10) and Other Christian (code 11).

Other Protestant should include members of any church that separated from the Catholic church in the 16th century, or any church, chapel or group that separated from a church that itself separated from the Catholic church in the 16th century. In practice, this means any Western christian church that is not Catholic.

Also included would be people who say 'Protestant', but do not name any specific church or denomination.

So included under 'Other Protestant' should be any of the following (which should also be listed with serial numbers):

- Apostolic church
- Church of Christ
- Church of Nazarene
- Christadelphians
- Christian Scientist
- English Church Mission
- Evangelical; Evangelical Christian
- German Evangelist
- House Church Movement
- Independent Chapel
- Irish Free Church
- Jehovah's Witness
- Lutheran
- Moravian
- Mormon
- Non-conformist
- Pentecostal
- Salvation Army
- Society of Friends/Quakers
- Unitarian

NB. Please TAB any other answers so that we can add them to this list

Codes like 'Independent Methodist' should be coded under 'Methodist', code 05. Varieties of Presbyterian should be coded under 04 or 08.

Continued . . .

P1155 Q314,315 }

Other Christian (code 11) should include any of the ORTHODOX churches, that is churches which developed separately from the Catholic church, or split from it before the 16th Century, and are either the Eastern or Greek branches of Christianity.

So included in this category would be:

Greek Orthodox
Russian Orthodox
Serbian Orthodox

NB. Please TAB any other answers so that we can add them to this list. All other answers should be final listed with serial number.

The final category, Other non-Christian can include other clearly non-Christian religions. Examples include:

Baha'i
Believer in God, but not Christian
Humanist
Satanist
Spirit worship
Wicca, or white witchcraft

Again, please TAB any other answers so they can be added to this list. Final list all other answers with serial number.

NB. There is a code for Christian - no denomination - code 01

BRITISH GENERAL ELECTION STUDY 1992

CROSS-SECTION NEW SAMPLE

CODEBOOK

June 1993

NOTES TO USERS OF THIS CODEBOOK

The 1992 British Election Study cross-section survey is a nationally representative probability sample interviewed following the 1992 General Election.

In 1992, the representation of Scottish electors in the sample was boosted substantially to enable more detailed investigation of voting behaviour in Scotland than is usually the case in BES surveys. In addition a Scottish module of questions particularly relevant to understanding political behaviour in Scotland was included in the questionnaire. This was made possible by an additional grant by the ESRC to Jack Brand and James Mitchell at the University of Strathclyde.

The issued sample contained 5,232 names drawn from the Electoral Registers; 3,816 in England and Wales, and 1,416 in Scotland. 3,534 respondents completed face-to-face interviews (2,577 in England and Wales, 957 in Scotland) and 3,304 returned the self-completion supplement (2,425 and 889 respectively).

The weighting variable WTFACOR downweights the over-representation of Scots in the sample to a nationally representative British sample. The weighting variable also weights the number of respondents in each Standard Region to the proportions of registered electors in each Region. It is essential, therefore, in analysis to weight the sample using the variable WTFACOR. The marginal distributions included in the Codebook are all weighted - and thus 'British' - frequencies, with the exception of those in the section included for the separate ARF data file.

Users of the dataset should refer to The British General Election Study 1992: Technical Notes for further details about the survey, the dataset, weighting, variable names, and so on. Copies of the Technical Notes are available from the ESRC Data Archive. In addition, SCPR's Technical Report provides further information about the survey, data preparation and occupation coding.

This Codebook lists each of the variables on the 1992 BES cross-section SPSS system file, together with their card/column location on the ascii data file, the questions asked and response categories (in summary form where necessary), the response codes and the weighted marginal distributions. It begins with items from the Address Record Form, then the face-to-face interview questionnaire including the Scottish module and classification section, and finally the self-completion supplement. Included after this is a list of variables on the separate ARF datafile containing both unproductive and productive cases, with unweighted marginals. Appended to the end of the Codebook is a set of additional notes.

At various points in the survey, questions were asked of subsamples of respondents while others were routed past such questions. On a small number of variables more than one filter operated simultaneously. Cases which were filtered out (or skipped) are defined as -1 (or -2 or -3) and are labelled "Skip" and the reason for this skip given (as space permits).

A split-sample experiment was conducted to find out whether or not there was a question-order effect according to whether respondents were asked first about their vote and then about their party identification or vice versa (see Heath and Pierce, 1992). Respondents with even serial numbers were asked the question on party identification before being asked about their vote, whereas respondents with odd serial numbers were asked the question on party identification afterwards. Thus this series of questions appears twice in the questionnaire, with the following question numbers:

	Even serial numbers	Odd serial numbers	Derived variables
Party identification	A6a	B13a	PARTYID
[if no Party Id] closer to which party?	A6b	B13b	PTYCLS

Strength of Party Id	A6c	B13c	IDSTRNG
Main aim of party	A6d	B13d	COMPROM

The derived variables PARTYID and so on combine the responses of the two half-samples. These derived variables should be used in analysis.

The two versions of the scale questions in the face-to-face interview questionnaire were likewise asked of split-halves of the sample. Questions A35 to A39, which have been asked in previous BES surveys, were asked of respondents with even serial numbers; the new international scale questions, B40 to B42, were asked of those with odd serial numbers.

There are a number of derived variables on the dataset. These are of two types. First, some variables have been added to the ascii data file which do not appear on the questionnaires; some of these have been derived from existing survey variables for the convenience of users, such a compressed versions of occupational classifications, a few others have been added to the dataset, such as the official turnout data as noted below. Second, some further derived variables are created in the SPSS set-up file.

Details of derived variables of the first type are included in this Codebook: column location, coding and labels. They appear in their logical order in the data, such as immediately after the survey variable of which they are a recode, rather than their actual location on the datafile. Their variable name is marked with an "*". For additional notes on these variables, in the order in which they appear in the data file, see Note C. For further details of their construction see the Technical Report.

A list of derived variables of the second type, those created in the SPSS set-up file, appears in Note D. For details of the method of their construction, see the set-up file.

Note that the variable TURNOUT is derived from data obtained independently of the survey from records held in the Lord Chancellor's Office.

The 1992 BGES is a collaborative venture between Nuffield College, Oxford, and Social and Community Planning Research. It was directed by Anthony Heath, Roger Jowell, John Curtice, Lindsay Brook, Bridget Taylor and Gillian Prior. It was funded jointly by the Economic and Social Research Council (grant numbers Y303253001 and Y304253011), the Sainsbury Family Charitable Trusts and the Joint Unit for the Study of Social Trends. This Codebook was prepared by Bridget Taylor and Joan Senior at Nuffield College.
